What are the glasses for?

1590 screenings... I have to be ready!

A large range of meeting and screening venues right at the heart of the Festival

The Palais des Festivals plays host to the majority of sales companies in the Riviera and its upper floor, Lérins.

There are 32 screening rooms, divided between the Palais and theaters in town. Twelve of them are high definition video screening rooms, amongst which 5 are digital theaters.

The Village International welcomes film institutions from all around the world, revealing the diversity of cinema heritage.

While you're at the Marché du Film, you can also stop by the Short Film Corner which focuses on emerging talent through a vast international selection.

More than ever, stay in the spotlight of the film market

The Marché du Film gives you access to three essential tools to help you work and be seen both during and after the event.

With your Marché du Film badge, you are instantly recognized as part of the inner circle of motion picture industry professionals. Your badge also gives you permanent access to the Festival de Cannes and unlimited access to all films.

Get and be part of the Guide, the international reference book for professionals:

- all the companies registered at the Marché du Film
- photos and contact information of decision-makers
- projects and films of sales companies and producers
- buyer profiles and rights they have recently acquired

Registration with the Marché du Film also includes one year's free access to www.cinando.com, the number one online database of the film industry. Cinando is a must, not only to prepare for all major international film events, but also to present your own company or projects.

Can you see me?

It's impossible to miss you...

Don't miss the opportunity to meet the right people!

An international network of co-productions

Gathering 500 producers from around the world, the Producers Network is designed to stimulate production and promote international co-production opportunities in today's dynamic market.

Did you get a chance to talk to Steven?

A series of 16 thematic Breakfast Meetings with roundtable discussions will be held every morning for seven days. Each morning, the Breakfast Meetings will welcome about 200 industry professionals, all bringing their own unique experience in production and international financing to the table for discussion.

During the first days of the Producers Network, speed dating sessions between producers will be organized to help connect and facilitate your networking throughout the Festival.

The Producers Network Club is the perfect location to meet with fellow producers, directors from the Atelier and other professionals. And don't miss the Club's Happy Hour to carry on your discussions over a drink...

Through the Producers Network, you are also part of a year-round online community of producers.

Sure, we met at yesterday's speed dating session...

Registration with the Producers Network includes:

- Access to the Breakfast Meetings
- Access to the Producers Network Happy Hours
- Access to the Producers Network Speed Dating sessions
- Listing in the 2008 Producers Guide (if registered before April 11, 2008)
