About our choice

After directing several award-winning short films, Paul Urkijo's feature-length debut Errementari was premiered in Sitges 2017 with a great reception between our audience. In Errementari, Paul Urkijo claims the potential of the Basque folklore to create a unique and unexplored horror atmosphere.

In the film, produced by Alex de la Iglesia and Carolina Bang, Paul Urkijo managed to craft an uncommon, gothic and fantasy atmosphere, that reveals a director who is capable of communicating his passion for the stories he writes and directs.

With his new project IRATI, Paul Urkijo continues exploring his distinctive brand, with a dark middle-age fantasy movie based in a Basque folklore and mythology, that Sitges couldn't miss to present you.

About BIFAN

Bucheon International Fantastic Film Festival (a.k.a. BIFAN) has always been a loyal supporter of genre films and diverse spirits of filmmakers and moviegoers. Founded in 1997, BIFAN had introduced cutting-edge films from all over the world, leading the success of the films in Korean market.

BIFAN Industry Gathering (a.k.a. B.I.G) comprises 3 industry programs: Network of Asian Fantastic Films (a.k.a. NAFF), including It Project, which aims to promote and discover new genre film projects and talents for being a platform for film production support, and global networking such as Sitges Pitchbox, Nordic Genre Invasion, Blood Window of Ventana Sur, HAF etc.; and Fantastic Film School, a professional training program for genre filmmakers. Also included are Made in Asia, which was created to investigate the trends in Asia's mainstream film industry; and Korea Now, which provides support to the Korean domestic film industry.

About our choice

For this year's Fantastic 7 candidate selection, a group of Korean film industry experts in the field of production, packaging and financing did a lot of work in the process. Selection process was focused on creativity and production possibility.

Three projects stood out from the rest and, in the end, the jury has chosen a project from NAFF It Project 2019, by talented director who previously participated in BIFAN's Fantastic Film School. Her impressive mise-en-scene on film noir, suspense-thriller and even growing pains genre is effectively shown in this film project. This filmmaker uniquely combines blind young girl's fear of unknown with her craving for discovery and salvation, while tackling the issue of domestic abuse and effectively maintaining the suspense throughout the film.

CAIRO

Cairo International Film Festival

About CIFF

Cairo International Film Festival (CIFF) is one of the 15 global festivals granted the category “A” status by the International Federation of Film Producers Associations (FIAPF). It is one of the oldest cultural events in Africa and the Middle East. It is also the only one in Africa and the Middle East to be recognized by the competitive feature category from the FIAPF. The goal of the CIFF is promoting films and developing meetings between cinema professionals around the world, connecting film industry professionals in the Arab world and the Middle East with their counterparts from other parts of the world, as well as show the Egyptian public some of most important international films.

The CIFF was launched in 1976 by the writer-critic Kamal El Mallakh to enhance the role of Egypt in the cinematic world and to serve as a bridge between diverse cultures of the world. Egypt has enjoyed a strong cinematic tradition since the art of filmmaking was first developed in 1896. But it had to wait until 1976 to launch its international film festival.

Through its previous 40 editions, the festival kept its tradition of organizing a feature-length competition for films screening for the first time in an “A” list festival. It helped promoting a variety of cinema waves and experiences within the Egyptian and Arab audience. CIFF also paid tribute to a magnanimous list of the world’s most recognized filmmakers. Names like Michelangelo Antonioni, Claude Chabrol, Abbas Kiarostami, Zhang Yimou, Arturo Ripstein, Carlos Saura, Sofi a Loren, Harvey Keitel, Juliette Binoche, Charlize Theron, and Salma Hayek received the prestigious lifetime achievement award from Cairo International Film Festival.

About our choice

In 1981, Egyptian director Mohamed Shebl screened his film “Fangs”, a political vampire musical, to be the very last Arab vampire story for decades. In 2020, Jordanian director Ramy Yassin gives us a film that mixes genres. “Three For Eternity” is a family drama, super mom story and a vampire saga (not the usual one though). A special melange that will trigger both ideas and chills for audience around the world.

THREE FOR ETERNITY

When an accident leaves a young boy in a coma, his parents love is put to the test as they resort to a dangerous plan to save him.

When one of their twin sons is left in a coma after an accident, their parents, Lamia and Nader, conceive an unorthodox plan to bring him back to life. The plan seemingly works, but the young boy starts adopting sinister and disturbing behaviors. About IFFAM

International Film Festival & Awards Macao (IFFAM) is in its fifth year of operation and is coming off its most successful edition yet in December 2019. Fusing eastern and western films, industries and sensibilities in the fantastic setting of Macao, IFFAM strives to support young film-makers with its competitions for first- and second-time directors and on a local level, working with Macao directors throughout the year. IFFAM is not exclusively a “genre” festival but the IFFAM project market curated by Todd Brown and run as part of the Industry Hub under June Wu has focused on international genre titles with an Asian element from the start.

About our choice

We are proud to present to you in Fantastic 7 one of the projects from our 2019 market - Foreign Cop - from the talented local film-maker Maxim Bessmertny. Born of Russian parents, Max was raised in Macao and his atmospheric short Tricycle Thief was selected for Toronto International Film Festival shorts programme in 2014. We think Foreign Cop has the potential to be a fascinating crime thriller.

I HAVE TO HAVE YOU

A modern take on the thriller genre, I HAVE TO HAVE YOU explores the threat that a camera can be as dangerous as a knife in the wrong hands.

tiff

About TIFF

Since its inception, several of the Toronto International Film Festival's distinct programming sections can be recognized as a kind of "state of the union" for respective modes of filmmaking, be it documentary, avant-garde, or, in the case of Midnight Madness, genre cinema. Each year the Midnight section seeks not just to champion the year's buzziest genre films, but also to capture the breadth of voices and sub-genres from around the world, particularly those that subvert and explode traditional conventions of fantastic cinema.

About our choice

Midnight Madness is a series beloved by audiences that has long been a platform for emerging genre voices, and we are eager to consider Madeleine Sims-Fewer and Dusty Mancinelli's first feature, Violation. Their provocative short films Woman in Stall and Chubby have disquieted audiences on the festival circuit, and although there are few details around their latest production, we are anticipating something decidedly dark, dangerous, and deranged — ingredients one loves to see in any truly transgressive text. We're also excited that this production is funded in part by Telefilm's Talent to Watch program, which supports new and innovative voices.
